How do you figure this out? The births of boy babies always increase and greatly exceed births of girl babies before and after each war. Right now 14,000 war babies are born in England every week, and it is known that the births there will soon exceed 16,000 weekly. Boys predominate in these births. There are also more marriages before and after wars. A study of America's births and marriages may tell us if this country will engage in the European war.

Incidentally, it is said England is losing less people as result of Germany's aerial raids than she lost in automobile wrecks before the aerial warfare began, due largely to the fact that petroleum products are being conserved for war purposes. The increase in birth-rate is increasing the population of the country.

It isn't fair to intimate that young men who are getting married now are doing so to escape the draft. Young men have been getting married ever since the ordinance of marriage was established. Then why should they refrain from marriage just because the government intends to draft an army. Preachers and divinity students are to be exempted from the draft. Are we to assume that every divinity student is a slacker? After all, the government will draft only as many men as are needed, and if there aren't enough single men they will take young married men, so it doesn't make any difference how many young men get married as far as the army is concerned. Any man who will take the responsibility of rearing a family is brave. He should be encouraged. We would like to see more young men getting married.

Conscription and compulsory military training will probably be adopted by Congress. Possibly in no other way can this country recruit the two million men required to operate the thousands of war machines needed for national defense. It will be a financial sacrifice on the part of most of the young men who are called, but in return they will receive invaluable vocational and physical training that is denied other young men. Judging from the campaign promises of nearly all congressional candidates up for election this month and in November, the new army will be used only for national defense and will not be sent across the seas to fight in a foreign war. The American people have spoken so emphatically against participation in Europe's wars during the past few months, that no Congress will take a chance on permitting this country to become involved. So, after all, conscription does not mean war at this time. It simply means that the young men of the country will be prepared to take care of themselves if war should come. If that should happen, the trained soldier would be more fortunate than the untrained man who is sent to war. We had plenty of proof of that statement in the last war.

Gas Tank Reaches New Resting Place

Having been enroute for several weeks, Palm Springs famous gas tank this week arrived at its new and final resting place in a small cove of the San Jacinto mountains where it is no longer visible on the sky-line as one enters or leaves this resort.

The huge moving job was accomplished to restore an uninterrupted view of the mountains and desert from the highway leading into Palm Springs. Up against the mountain in its new location, the gas tank is very inconspicuous from the road.

The tank was moved in an up-hill position without being dismantled, a truly titanic task. It is said this is the biggest moving job ever accomplished in Riverside county.

R. H. MANN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

R. H. Mann, well known local trucker, had a narrow escape from death Thursday morning of last week when a landslide on the road to Big Bear Lake nearly plunged him into the deep gorge of Bear Creek below the dam.

Mr. Mann was enroute to the lake to pick up a load to be brought to Palm Springs for George Oliver. A few miles this side of Big Bear, a small landslide occurred just at the moment when Mann's truck was passing along the road.

A large boulder rolled down the steep embankment above the road, crashing into the front wheel of the truck and causing the vehicle to veer toward the edge of the road. Another large rock hit the roof of the cab on the opposite side from the driver but did not hit Mann.

With all his strength and in desperate haste Mann managed to straighten the wheels and to swerve his truck into the road, missing only by inches going off the road and plunging hundreds of feet down into the rocky bottom of Bear Creek. If one of the wheels of the truck had gone over the edge, the vehicle would surely have plunged into the gorge; and this undoubtedly would have meant death to the only occupant of the car.

Mr. Mann was completely unnerved by his experience. Shaking like a leaf, he managed to drive on to Big Bear and to return with Mr. Oliver's load. However, as he told this reporter, his nerves were so shot that he could not sleep for three nights after his narrow escape from death.

Mann was driving 25 miles per hour at the time and thus had to act fast. He was almost over the edge before he could move to the right the course of his vehicle. Also, he would have been killed or badly injured if the rock that hit the cab had been just a little lower. If it had been lower, it would have crashed through the window of the truck and into Mann.

He is in close contact with Dr. Reid and recently addressed a mass meeting in the Estes Park auditorium, attended by nearly a thousand people. He was introduced to the audience by Dr. Reid.

At the mass meeting Dr. McCracken of Vassar and Attorney Paul Blakewell of St. Louis were also speakers. After the mass meeting many telegrams were sent by those present to President Roosevelt and to Senators and Congressmen, asking that aid be given to Britain as outlined in William Allen White's program.

PALM SPRINGS JEWEL THIEVES BELIEVED CAUGHT

The Palm Springs $33,000 jewel robbery from Mrs. Harry Goetz several months ago yesterday was attributed along with several other robberies to two men taken into custody in Elizabethtown, N.Y., according to an Associated Press dispatch from that city.

According to John J. King, police inspector of the eastern city, the men have been linked to a growing list of coast-to-coast society jewel thefts exceeding $225,000, including the Palm Springs case.

King said that Robert J. Beckwith, 36, of Boston, admitted during questioning participation in thefts of $900 in jewels from Merle Oberon, Hollywood film actress, and of $25,000 in rings and other valuables in Boston from Leslie Howard, actor, five years ago.

Other jewel thefts attributed by the inspector to Beckwith and Charles M. Denneau, 33, New York, also held in connection with the robberies, occurred in New York and California.

Beckwith, who told police he was a movie extra, is awaiting grand jury action on a first degree grand larceny charge. Denneau, one-time magazine salesman serving a 30-day term for vagrancy, has a similar charge filed against him. Both are in the Essex county jail.

None of the jewels has been recovered.

SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE

Any industry to survive, and advertising has survived, must render aid to the people.

Advertising does this in three major ways:

Advertising makes for a solvent press, and a free press is essential to our democratic way of life.

Furthermore, advertising makes free enterprise possible, so that the small business man can expand his enterprise into a big one.

And, again, it is advertising which is giving us in America the highest standard of living in the world.

This has been accomplished by the mass selling effect of advertising, which permits increased production and correspondingly lower prices. For instance, the public today, because of advertising, has better radios for $65.00 than formerly for $200.00; better refrigerators for $125.00 than they could formerly get for $300.00; better washing machines for $50.00 than those which used to cost $125.00; better automobiles for $750.00 than we paid $2000.00 for fifteen years ago. The advantages which advertising has brought to the people by raising the standard of living are endless.

Yet it is amazing how few people understand the economics of advertising—the simple elemental principle—that good advertising absorbs itself in the increased wealth that it creates. For instance, the turnover of business in this country will this year approximate 68 billion. The advertising bill will be about one billion—less than 1½ per cent. Should advertising have been eliminated, it cannot possibly be conceived that our turnover of business would have been more than 60 billion dollars and undoubtedly much less. Yet this great force of advertising is little understood and we intend to make it well understood in the course of the next three years.

The attacks on advertising which make this campaign advisable have been caused by the minority five per cent who employ advertising to untruthful or unscrupulous ends. This is nothing new. Since the other professions of medicine, law and business often find themselves condemned because of the transgressions of a few. In nearly every lodge there is a member or two that most everyone wishes weren't there. And everyone knows how one bad neighbor can spoil the whole neighborhood. It is these quacks who have caused our trouble.

Advertising clubs are planning to take the offensive through education, through aid to the United States Government, Better Business Bureaus, and through a more concentrated organization of the entire advertising industry on the Pacific Coast.

IN EARNEST ABOUT WAR

Britain dispelled the remaining doubts of cynics on this side of the Atlantic about its earnestness in prosecuting the war when it recently increased its tax burden to 70 per cent of the normal English income, the largest in its entire history. Even under this staggering load, there will be a deficit, and more than $8,000,000,000 must be borrowed in the near future to carry on the war.

The basic income tax now is 42½ per cent, and is collected every pay day. Large incomes were particularly hard hit, and the Government will now collect nine-tenths of any income of $80,000. It is pointed out that this makes it impossible for industrialists to make fortunes out of the national misfortune.

Though the burden is almost unbelievable, the British people took it with a smile and even asked for more. Many newspapers commented that it was not as bad as was expected, and even censured the Government for not increasing taxes more. Apparently the English want to pay as they go, in so far as is possible.

DRY ICE THOUGHT TO EXIST IN THIS VICINITY

(Exclusive to The Desert Sun.
Ray E. Coulton, Sc. D. Oil and Gas Science Writer).

Carbon dioxide gas or CO<sub>2</sub> from which dry ice is manufactured, is believed to exist beneath the desert area east of Banning, and dry ice interests are "eyeing" this area with interest. Accumulations of oil vary according to formations. The dry ice possibilities and the accumulation of oil are discussed in this article. Republishing of any of the wording of this article by any other newspaper, is prohibited.

Carbon Dioxide Gas Believed in Desert Area

Geologists recently examining the structural features of the area east of Banning note that there are certain indications that carbon dioxide gas or CO<sub>2</sub> from which dry ice is manufactured, may exist in these areas of Riverside county. This gas is the result of prehistoric volcanic accumulations, and was first discovered by the eminent Dutch scientist Van Helmont who called it gas sylvestre. Later experiments with this gas in Europe by the British scientist Black, caused the gas to be re-named fixed air, as it was discovered to be a constituent of carbonated alkalies. It has since been utilized to manufacture dry ice, and extensive plants which manufacture this product are maintained by the Imperial Dry Ice Corporation in the Imperial Valley. The state of New Mexico is one of the largest exporters of this natural refrigerant. If it is discovered in desert areas in this vicinity, it will mean a "boom" for those areas of Riverside county.

False Ideas About Oil Accumulation

The general public in areas where oil is unknown thinks of oil as being discovered in underground rivers and streams, but the true condition of oil recovery, is quite different. Whenever any one talks of oil occurring this way, he is either ignorant of the true conditions of discovery or is using selling talk to interest the unwary in a stock scheme. The actual facts of oil recovery and accumulation are as follows:

The reservoirs in which oil and gas occur are in order of their importance, porous sands, sandstones, limestone, fractured shales, and in rare cases, igneous porous rocks. Such sediments may be seen at outcrops or in the samples taken from test holes during test well drilling operations. The oil occurs in the small pores or interstices of the sand body. Sandstones are sands with grains bound together by cementing materials such as lime salts (principally calcium carbonate) iron salts (hematite and limonite) and silica. If the cementing material completely fills the pores, there will be no space for oil or gas, but even seemingly dense sandstone, is oftentimes very porous.

Conditions Necessary for Accumulation of Oil

Five essential conditions which are necessary before any oil company will invest money for test wells in an unproven area, have been found to exist in the area between Banning and Palm Springs. These are as follows:

- 1—An area which is underlain by beds rich in organic material.
- 2—Reservoirs of sedimentary strata such as porous sands, sandstones, or limestones of sufficient thickness to be capable of holding oil and gas in commercial quantities.
- 3—Relatively impervious coverings, such as compact limestones, shales or clay beds that act as seals above and below the porous oil reservoirs to keep the oil and gas from escaping; or asphaltic beds which seal outcropping horizons.
- 4—Traps for accumulation, viz. structural conditions such as anticlines, domes, terraces, faults, unconformities, and lenticular sand bodies, which hold the gas and oil in place.
- 5—Hydraulic conditions; water pressure which assists in the accumulation of gas and oil.

The features enumerated here, are those which are most generally sought in an area where no previous drilling presented sufficient evidence that oil existed. All of these conditions have been discovered during field work in this part of Riverside county.

Many forms of animal life existed here in prehistoric times. Fossil remains of these forms of life, such as three-toed pygmy horse, mastodon teeth, sabre-tooth tiger etc., have been found. These will be discussed in the next and final article of this series.

Phillips Highly Valued

Editor Press and Enterprise: Because a prophet is sometimes without honor in his own country, I should like to offer this unsolicited commendation of the sterling gentleman who has been so ably representing your county in the State Senate, Hon. John Phillips.

The writer has served the Senate in an official capacity for a number of sessions and is, therefore, in a position to know rather intimately the workings of the legislature and the men who are sent to Sacramento to make our laws. Few men in recent years have made the enviable record hung up by Senator Phillips and the people of Riverside county are to be congratulated in having such a splendid man representing them in the upper house.

Every legislator sacrifices a great deal to serve the state but few men give so unstintingly of their time and ample talents as does Senator Phillips. He is recognized by his colleagues as an authority on matters of social welfare and relief and for his thorough and painstaking attention to legislative affairs. It is a notable fact that few men receive closer attention in committee and on the Senate floor.

It is regrettable that Governor Olson should attempt to "purge" Senator Phillips, whose patriotism, knowledge and ability make him one of the most highly valued men in the legislature. His unselfish devotion to his duties as a legislator is well known and it is to be hoped that the voters of Riverside county will re-elect him on August 27th. He merits the unqualified support of all of the people, in whose interests he labors even to the detriment of his health.

Buick Sales Break Records; Still Increasing

Optimistic reports of the automobile outlook for the coming season were made this week by W. F. Hufstader, Buick general sales manager, addressing more than 400 members of the nation's press assembled at Detroit to preview this manufacturer's new cars for 1941.

The executive declared motor cars sales during the past 60 days have shown an unprecedented trend with a midsummer strength in the market that presages a heavy fall business.

He announced that Buick is raising its estimates for the remainder of the year to approximately 18 per cent over the final months of 1939, and is scheduling the production of automobiles during the remainder of the year accordingly.

Commenting on the success of the 1940 model season, he said that Buick this year has established an all-time high with more than 283,000 domestic and export sales. At the same time, he reported that dealers have concluded the year in strong position, having averaged nearly 100 sales per dealer, believed to be the highest in the automobile industry.

"Our objective during the 1941 model season is a minimum of 300,000 cars in the domestic market," he said. "Studies on which this projected volume is based indicate upward trends in major lines of business during the remainder of this year and the probability of good business in 1941."

"There has been an increase in national income and indications are that this trend will improve as the country moves further into its industrial program of national defense. At the same time, normal business has shown steady expansion with resulting improvement in employment and payrolls."

"There has been increased spending during the past six months and it is on a broader scale. A larger share of national income is finding its way into the purchase of automobiles and other desirable commodities."

"This buying mood is a favorable factor in the present outlook. In the automotive field it has been stimulated by the high values to be found in the cars themselves and the progress the industry has made in improving the desirability of its product."

"Buick, particularly, gained a larger share of the automobile market during the 1940 model year and has designed its 1941 cars with view to increasing its share of the total business. To date, we are making approximately 8.8 per cent of all automobile sales and, in the price class in which we are operating, are accomplishing better than 20 per cent of total sales."

The executive said that Buick's all time high sales record for the current year has strengthened the position of the already strong Buick dealer organization. He pointed out that this greatest volume in Buick history was accomplished through the smallest sales organization among the major producers.

"Buick has not expanded the number of its dealers materially," he said. "A year ago there were 2,821 retail outlets while today our dealerships number 2,849. It is significant that approximately the same number of dealers are today doing four times the volume that they did only a few years ago."

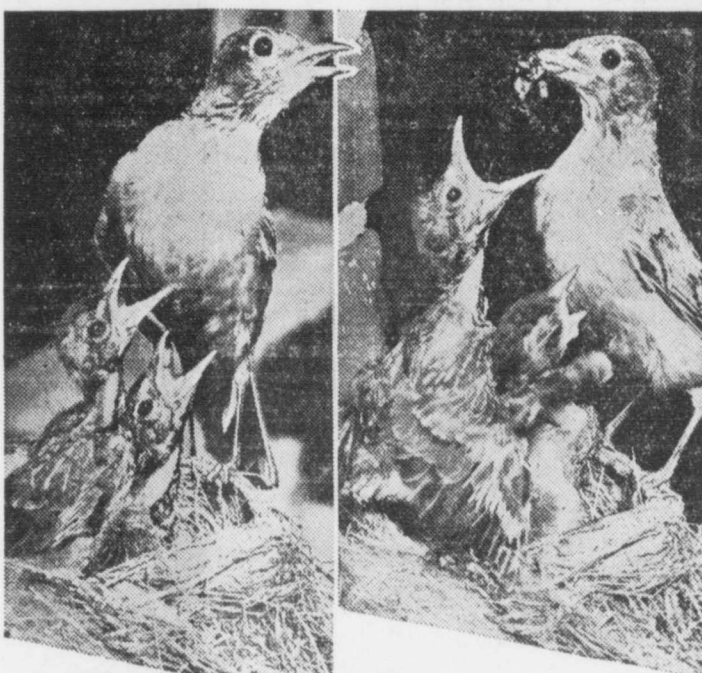

"Their profit position is correspondingly increased. Through June of this year our dealers had sold 223,137 of the 1940 models against a volume of 166,654 in the corresponding period of the previous year. Against this increase of 34 per cent in units sales, Buick dealers' net profits are estimated to have climbed 66 per cent."

Of the new Buick cars, the executive said they represent pronounced advancements in both body styling and engineering details with market stepup in horsepower of the new Buick engines. The new body styling improves upon and broadens the range of the "torpedo" type of body introduced by Buick last year, he said.

The new cars are larger and somewhat heavier this year, he said, but have better performance and better top speeds. At

Baby Robins Sing for Their Breakfast

It's mighty convenient when a picture flies right into the hands of a cameraman. That was the experience of a photographer in Baltimore who took the above views of a Robin family. The birds built their nest in his yard and he was able to snap the parent bird, left, looking anxiously to see if the other parent is on the job digging up worms. At right, papa has just returned, his beak full of worms for the babies who are mighty hungry. He'll dole them out evenly.

SEYMOUR

JUDGE

TO THE VOTERS OF RIVERSIDE COUNTY:

I am a candidate for the office of Judge of the Superior Court of our county, at this coming election.

A Superior Court should not only be a place of dignity but a tribunal where JUSTICE is administered without fear or favor and in harmony with the law and the facts. There is no place for preference in a court of justice. The Superior Court should be a non-partisan forum where all may come, from the poor to the rich, irrespective of social, financial or political standing, race, creed or color, with the full confidence that they are entitled to and can and will receive that justice which the Constitution declares is rightfully theirs.

The courts of the land should be zealous in demanding that the principle of true Americanism prevails within their portals and that there be no infiltration of foreign ideologies within their confines; they should be presided over only by those who are mentally alert; have a sufficient background and possess faith in God; are open minded; studious and diligent; charitable, courageous and progressive; understand the frailties of mankind; neither too young nor too old, and willing to realize the fact that a new legal, economic, social and moral order is seeking recognition in the present realm of thought. A judge should be a man who has been actively engaged in the practice of law for many years; is familiar with legal procedure and has the respect of the bench and bar and his fellow citizens.

In an election for a judicial office a campaign should be conducted in a judicial and dignified way. I believe that the decision of the voter should be based upon the qualifications of the candidate and in connection therewith I wish to state that I can find no place for the solicitation of support by paid managers or paid workers and specially selected groups or exaggerated statements.

At this coming election upon you to think for yourself; realize the importance of your vote and cast it for that candidate, irrespective of who he is, whom you really and honestly believe will fill the office of Superior Court Judge as it should be filled. See that your vote indicates your own selection. Inform yourself. The American voter when he thinks for himself seldom goes astray.

The foregoing statement constitutes my philosophy now and will so remain without change or variation.

I am a graduate of the University of Southern California and have been actively engaged in the practice of law in the State of California for thirty-five years.

I am qualified to fill the office I seek. If you believe that I qualify to be a judge of our Superior Court I will appreciate the support of you and your friends.

I submit my candidacy to you for your consideration and would like to meet and talk to all of you personally; however, that is not possible, so I use this means of presenting my message and suggest that you preserve it for your information.

Respectfully submitted,
JOSEPH SEYMOUR.

Dilworth Victory Predicted By Campaign Com.

An overwhelming victory for Assemblyman Nelson S. Dilworth, seeking re-election to the state legislature from the 76th Assembly district was predicted today by members of his campaign committee as the date of the August 27th primary election draws near.

Surveys in the district, the campaign committee said, disclosed that Assemblyman Dilworth was rapidly gaining in strength as voters throughout the area expressed themselves as heartily in favor of his return to the legislature.

Assemblyman Dilworth was a leading member of the so-called "economy bloc" in the legislature and was responsible in a great part for savings of more than $200,000,000 for the people of California during the 1939 regular and the 1940 special sessions.

Supporters of Assemblyman Dilworth cited his record for the last session of the legislature as indicative of his stand for separation of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government, as provided by California's state government.

Assemblyman Dilworth's campaign leaders declared he has stood steadfastly for the best interests of the people of the 76th district. They pointed out that he has resisted every attempt of a group of politicians dominating the state, to browbeat and coerce him into joining blindly following their orders.

Attention!...Democratic Voters of Palm Springs!

At the important Primary Election on Tuesday, August 27th, 1940, candidates will be nominated for the election to be held on November 5th, 1940.

We, the undersigned, after giving the subject careful thought, believe you ought to bear in mind the following facts in order to vote in an informed manner.

First—there are several candidates on the Democratic Primary Ballot who are generally known to be staunch and reactionary members of the Republican party. While this is permitted by the laws of California, we do not believe you can consistently vote for them to appear on the November ballot as DEMOCRATS. Their names are:

Republicans on Democratic Ballot

Hiram W. Johnson, for United States Senate
John Phillips, for State Senate
Nelson S. Dilworth, for State Assembly

Second—While there are several genuine Democratic candidates for each office on the ballot, it is our mature judgment that, without the slightest reflection on the eligibility of any of these candidates, there are certain ones who are much more likely to be elected in November than are others. These are as follows:

Candidate	Office
JOHN ANSON FORD,	U. S. Senate
HARRY R. SHEPPARD,	U. S. Congress
DAN HUCKINS,	State Senate
I. C. BAGWELL,	State Assembly
ROY A. MOORE,	Judge of the Superior Court
CARL R. BROWN,	County Central Committee
JOHN R. O'NEIL,	County Central Committee
WM. SCOTT WELLS,	County Central Committee

We respectfully suggest, therefore, that you vote for the foregoing list of candidates as representing the greatest probability of our winning a sweeping Democratic victory in the November election.
